February 2021
Show and Tell

Cheryl Wilcox

Here is my latest finished project,
a wall hanging made for ME!
It is based on the Fons and
Porter Fall 2019
Easy quilts magazine
pattern called "Prism Break."
I wanted a wall hanging rather than a twin sized quilt, so geometry
came in handy:)

These placemats are Valentine's Day gifts to my son, Matthew and his wife, Jensena. He went to KU (new fabric from Quilter's Haven) and she went to Oregon University (the beavers). One year, either for her birthday or some holiday, Matthew purchased behind the scene tickets at the Portland Zoo to walk among the penguins. Something to remember that experience!

Linda Hagen

This is a quilt I made for the veterans. The center is twilling and the log cabin strips are from a jelly roll.

I made each of my children a quilt for Christmas. They were all blocks of the month from Prairie Point over the past 3 years.

Susan Gandy

This is my 365 quilt (intended to be a block a day), but took 4 years with other projects in between. Most fabrics from my stash but also from some friends and guild members as well as my mom and grandmother dating to the 40's. Hand appliquéd, hand pieced and hand quilted. Completed December, 2020.

Both of these quilts are for guild charity quilts. Quilt 1 is a Block of the Month by Debby Brown Quiltalong. Her BOM is to use scraps cut in 2 1/2 inch squares and each month she will present a new pattern using the 16 patch block in some design. I cut up all my scraps that were less than a fat quarter into 2 1/2 inch squares. I have a lot! I also quilted this myself on my regular machine (first time to do that!).

The quilt #2 is one I finished from the charity stash. I attached the borders and binding and I tied this one, rather than quilting it.

I love those National Parks panels and so have made two more tops for two of my older sisters. Here's Great Smokey Mountains! Most of this fabric is from the Riley Blake national parks line.

Here's the Rocky Mountain panel top. All the fabric is from the Riley Blake national parks line including the green background.
